Redefining Business Strategy with Human Intelligence

ABOUT CHRISTINE

Upon being named an industry “Disruptor” in 2019 by Utah Magazine, Christine Wzorek has disrupted and redefined how Human Capital works within the framework of modern business.

With 25 years of collective business strategy and Human Capital experience, Christine has taken the helm of modern business by marrying Human Capital, Business Strategy and Financial Strategy through the lens of human behavior. As a thought leader offering big-picture vision while designing comprehensive processes, Christine has synchronized business constructs to incorporate human intelligence as a proactive strategy for sustainability and perpetual impact.

Her focus?

To recognize and harness the patterns and power of latent potential within Human Capital to optimize organizational efficiencies and returning value to the bottom line. Through this groundbreaking pattern recognition, Christine has achieved successful business outcomes for clients, including innovative technologies and financial statements.

On top of her impact on the industry itself, Christine has successfully led numerous CEOs and executives through this human-intelligence function to optimize their relationships, improve their business culture and achieve business milestones. Her proactive pursuit of this new business model has increased business productivity rooted in true, cohesive partnerships with CEOs, CFOs and COOs to incorporate Human Capital systems in the business development phase and ongoing strategy, not after. This approach helps businesses assimilate to the new Future of Work and its employees through higher profits, better sustainable growth, and expanded market share.

In addition to her accomplishments in the business world, Christine is known for her female workforce development initiatives and her work as a dedicated member of numerous boards. Currently, as Chair of ACG Utah's Women's Professional Network, Christine is trailblazing the path for Women in Business in the middle-market sector. After personal experience facing the working woman stigma in Utah, and the obstacles of being a single mother, she has worked tirelessly to break down social and economic barriers to inspire women to work towards their goals of independence, creativity and business development.

Christine is a graduate of Utah Valley University with a bachelors of science in Business Administration with a SPHR from the Society of Human Resource Management in Alexandria Virginia. Christine writes for Forbes Council and is a decorated member of their Human Resource Council. She and her son, Owen, reside in South Jordan Utah where she enjoys training for triathlons, paddle boarding and is taking up olympic skate skiing in nearby Park City.

CAREER HIGHLIGHT

Christine Wzorek is the Founder and CEO of White Label Advisors, Inc., a human capital advisory firm advising high-growth companies on People Strategy. Most recently, Christine was awarded the coveted “Utah 40 Over 40” award for female executives in 2024. Named a Human Capital industry “Disruptor” in 2019 by Utah Magazine, Christine has disrupted and redefined how Human Capital works within the framework of modern business by modernizing HR for companies like Pitted Companies, DiscGencis, TORUS, Gozney, SABCA, Level Home, to name a few.

Known for making bold moves to shake up the Industry, Christine is an AI Tech advisor and has sat as founding COO and CGO to Human Insights and Predictive Analytics organizations as she works to shape a new future for HR.

Named Chair of the ACG UT Women’s Professional Network in 2023, she is trailblazing equal representation and deal-making activity for Women in Business in Utah.

Prior to White Label Advisors, Christine was the Vice President of Human Capital at Four Foods Group (now Savory Fund), a restaurant development, investment, operations and management company where Christine led a decentralized Human Capital program resulting in monumental growth and cultural impact.
